OPERATIONS

This new organization was designated the 137th Maintenance and Supply Group. consisting of the 137th Maintenance Squadron, 137th Supply Squadron, and the 137th Motor Vehicle Squadron. (all under the same authority as above). Prior to receiving federal recognition of this new group for Kansas, the group was part of the Oklahoma Air National Guard and served on active duty during the Korean emergency as a part of the 137th Fighter Bomber Wing.

The 137th Maintenance and Supply Group was organized from a nucleus of 6 Officers and 67 Airmen and was commanded by Maj Carl L. Boggs. After attaining strength of 20 officers and 276 Airmen the primary mission of the group was to establish priorities for allocation of maintenance, supplies and transportation to the 137th Fighter Bomber Wing, based at Will Rogers Field, Oklahoma.

Commanding the 137th Maintenance Squadron was 1Lt David R. Britton, Jr., Captain Anthony A. Leis commanded the 137th Supply Squadron and 1st Lt James D. Fair, Jr.. commanded the 137th Motor Vehicle Squadron. Also attached to the 127th was the 127th Forecasting and Observing Flight (Weather). commanded by Capt Robert J. Sauer.

Captain Joseph C. Lukens assumed command of the 137th Supply Squadron effective 21 January 1957.
