OPERATIONS

Operational training, Feb-Mar 1943; replacement training, Apr 1943-Mar 1944. Transported U.S. Army troops and cargo, provided aerial resupply, and dropped paratroopers within the U.S., May 1951-Jan 1953 and performed similar duties worldwide.

Constituted 335 Troop Carrier Squadron, Medium, 10 May 1949. Activated in the reserves at Birmingham Municipal Airport, Ala., in June 1949 and moved to Mitchel Air Force Base, N.Y., in October of 1949 as part of the 514th Troop Carrier Wing. The 335 was equipped with the C-46 Commando. Recalled to active duty during the Korean conflict, members of the 335 flew stateside support missions until February 1953, when the unit was returned to reserve status. Activated in the reserve on 1 Apr 1953 and during this time the unit performed airlift operations, participated in exercises and flew the C-46 as part of a combat crew training school. In March 1961, the 335 moved with the 514th from Mitchel Field to McGuire Air Force Base, N.J., and changed aircraft to the C-119 Flying Boxcar. In 1966 the 335 was redesignated 335 Military Airlift Squadron and transitioned to the C-141 aircraft. In 1992 the squadron was redesignated the 335 Airlift Squadron. The 335 Airlift Squadron inactivated in 1995.
